Name: Isabella DeLuca

1. Describe the proposed project in brief, including general introductory information and overview.

(might change to homeless veteran research paper)

(It's not expected that you know exactly what you want to do for an Honors Project at this point in time. The purpose of this exercise is to familiarize you with Honors project requirements, and proposal writing in general. Choose any topic/idea that you have some interest in to explore here, with the understanding that you are free to change your ideas later. You will not submit this to Honors until your Junior or Senior year) I would like to help the community lessen the percentage of homeless people. With using my programming skills I want to make a public website with every resource someone needs to be able to start the long road of getting back on their feet + forms to fill out to work for every situation that could happen

2. Explain the rationale for the project, including aims and objectives with emphasis on your own personal learning outcomes. (By the end of this project, what do you hope to have learned?)

1: I would learn more about programming when making a website.
2: Aiming to provide an easier accessed website/pamphlets, anything to help.

3. Outline procedures to be followed such as lab, studio, or field work, library research, interviews, etc., emphasizing aspects of the project that will be your own original work. (What do you plan to do to meet your learning outcomes?) The website will be my original work. Library research will be very important with this topic.

4. Identify resources required to do the project. How will you acquire them? Where are they available at URI?

Resources required will be the library with articles/books. I can ask any of my professors how to start/applications to use and so on.

5. Detail your preparation to do the proposed work. This might include prior courses or experiences, accomplishments, character traits, etc. (What do you bring to this experience that will enhance the chance for success in meeting your learning outcomes?) I think I am a very "hard headed" person which may sound bad, however I would be able to push my creation until I definetly have everything I need.

(You can base this on your preparation at this point in time OR what you might do to prepare in the future. For example: What courses/learning experiences could you pursue during the next few years to help prepare you for this project?)
All of my major based classes will be put towards this project. It will definitely take time to learn everything I would need however it will be worth it to not only help people but to practice something that I will be learning for 3 years.

6. Please state what your deliverable(s) will be for the project.
(for example, an academic paper, documentary/video, artwork/performance, etc.)

Website/ paper (maybe)

7. Discuss the value of the project to you and your future academic career and/or goals/plans.

The value of this project is to know that I can creativley produce a product of work and be confident about it. This would be great in a portfolio as well.
